For more than ten years it also offers Master programmes in English.

I would like to offer the information about our programmes to You, Your colleagues and their friends/families and we kindly ask you to disseminate this information within your networks. The programmes encompass area studies, contemporary history, international relations, international political economy and other related academic fields.

More detailed information and important contacts can be found in the leaflets attached.

Balkan, Eurasian and Central European Studies (BECES)

The programme offers the students with its two specializations 1) Russian and Eurasian Studies and 2) Balkan and Central European Studies a deep and versatile exploration of "the East", understood as a territory composed of Central Europe, the Balkan Peninsula, and the Post-Soviet area, including the Caucasus and Central Asia. BECES focuses on modern history, politics and diplomacy, as well as on fundamental social, cultural and economic problems of the chosen area. It also offers students the chance to learn or improve their knowledge of chosen regional language (e.g. Czech, German, Russian, Polish etc...). BECES is deliberately structured to take advantage of the multidisciplinary nature of the Faculty, and students will be encouraged to make connections between different fields of study, learning to combine a global perspective with attention to detail and local interests.

After Studies

After completion of BECES, the graduates will have acquired an advanced level of graduate education including a good command of one or two of the languages of the area as well as a broad and deep knowledge of the region studied. They will have the opportunity to continue their self-education and to find positions related to the issues in the studied area in both the public and private spheres.

Admissions

BECES is open to students holding a Bachelor degree in the relevant subject area who fulfil selected criteria. The admissions committee will assess the applications on the basis of submitted documents and award points (1-100) in the following categories: academic background, motivation, extra-curricular activities. The point limit for accepting applicants is set by the Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences of Charles University.

DEADLINE for applications is 30th April 2019.

Tuition fees

Annual tuition fees for students commencing in the academic year 2019/2020 are set at 3 000 EUR for EU/EEA students and at 6 000 for non-EU/non-EEA student.

EPS { European Politics and Society

European Politics and Society (EPS) -- Václav Havel Joint Master Programme is a multidisciplinary two-year Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degree Program linking the fields of European politics, contemporary history and culture, economy, international relations and policymaking.

What do we offer?

The key role of the programme is to identify and analyse challenges Europe faces today (migration, security, populism). The first semester of the EPS Programme is based on Master level introductory courses (in Prague), the second semester focuses on EU related courses (Krakow, Leiden). In the third and fourth semesters, the programme offers four different study tracks reflecting the diverse expertise of the Consortium members (Prague, Krakow, Barcelona, and Leiden). Each track combines various elective courses, research methods training, an internship and language tuition with an advanced research dissertation supervised by key staff from each Partner University.

Extra-curricular activities

Two important features of this exclusive programme are an intensive extra-curricular training programme and a direct link to the future work field through frequent interaction with professionals and experts from outside academia through the Associate Partners of the EPS programme.

Joint Events

All students spent their first semester in Prague, where they participate in the Prague Introductory week. At the end of the first semester, they choose the topic of the Master thesis and write a draft proposal for the thesis project, which they will present at a three-day Barcelona Research Seminar. For the second semester students have two options, go to Leiden or Krakow. The two final semesters can be spent at any of the four universities depending on the specialization. After the third semester all
